Ten Cents

The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Stop the Presses!

The causes of inflation are elementary. The people who could do something about it tend to double-talk and "complexify" the causes leaving the rank-and-file American feeling completely mystified and helpless.

Contributing to the misunderstanding are the national law-makers. They are also the only ones who can do something about it.

The problems and the solutions were laid out the other day better than any we'd seen. They came in a memo from the desk of State Senator H. L. Richardson who acknowledged that any action by the public is a study in frustration.

The housewife boycotting beef products creates a temporary dip at best.

The businessman and unions blaming each other are completely off base.

The President urging that we eat fish while the Governor blames the cost of beef on an act of God is ridiculous.

None of which is anywhere near the cause or correction. Inflation means to blow up, inflate, expand.

Expand what?

Expand the number of paper dollars in circulation.

Who expands the number of dollars?

Your government with its printing presses.

When more money is created by government, this new money waters down the money its citizens now have, diluting their buying power.

It's much like the wino stealing a nip from the bottle and replacing it with water. Soon he'll be sipping only slightly flavored wate.

Prices of meat and all other commodities are established by what people are willing to sell them to people who are willing to buy—supply and demand. The amount of goods on one hand and the amount of money in circulation establishes the prices. This process gets out of whack when government prints a new batch of money and dumps it into the economy.

This causes prices to rise because there is more money around to bid up the price of goods.

Suppose you and 9 friends attended an auction with $100 each. Bidding is moving normally, in line with the value of the item. There is no inflation here.

But suppose someone slipped one of the friends $100 in newly printed money that all of you had to accept as legal tender. He could outbid you all. Instead of $1,000 among the bidders, there is $1,100. The guy with the new money has an obvious advantage and can bid up the price of goods. That's inflation. The amount of money in circulation has increased by $100, diluting the buying power of your money by 10 per cent.

The logical mind then asks, "why would the government do this to us?" The answer is simple. It needs the money to feed its voracious appetite.

There are two ways the government can get money. One is by taxation. But there is a growing fear among bureaucrats of a rebellion. A little heavier tax load and the rebellion would toss them off the gravy train.

The other is the federal money printing presses. It has been going on for years. The bureaucrats haven't the nerve to tax us for all of those nutty programs they initiate from Washington. So they print more money.

Inflation is the cruelest of all forms of taxation, because it strikes those who can least afford it—the elderly with fixed incomes, retired pensioners, the poor.

Inflation robs the frugal, depletes your savings and eventually destroys the nation itself.

Of all the solutions suggested to control inflation, no responsible Washington official has suggested that they stop the presses!

Protest Group Packs Meeting

Over 50 local residents who are in opposition to the construction of the proposed Murray Hill condominiums packed the auditorium at Golden Avenue School last Thursday evening for the regular meeting of the Lemon Grove Planning Association.

Speaker for the group, John Schedine, listed reasons for the opposition to the 97-unit development, including the fact that there is already a sewage problem in the area. He also said that a radical change in the contour of the land would add drainage problems.

Schedine said that the proposal to link sewage service for the development to a six-inch line which is already inadequate for residents in the area would compound the problem that is currently so bad that it prevents the use of garbage disposals by residents of the area.

He also cited problems such as fire protection, damage caused by blasting, inadequate streets, and added danger to students who walk to school.

The association, after hearing the presentation, decided to notify Supervisor Dick Brown, the Planning Commission, and the Environmental Review Board of the protest.

In other planning association business, Robert Stuart, citizen planning advisor, explained the functions of his office to those on hand.

He noted that his office advises, furnishes information, aids in obtaining graphic aides, and assists property

Strong Arm Robbery Nets No Wallet

A La Mesa woman was the victim of a strong arm robbery last week while she was collecting boxes from behind a Lemon Grove store.

A report from the Sheriff's Department indicated that Lucille W. Cserna, 62, of La Mesa, was approached at about 8:15 p.m. behind the Thrifty Drug Store by a 16 to 17 year old female of Mexican descent.

The suspect asked the victim for a cigarette, but the victim replied that she did not smoke, but offered the suspect money to purchase cigarettes with. The suspect then grabbed the victim's purse and was joined by another suspect in trying to wrestle the purse away.

After successfully taking the purse, the two suspects ran to a car nearby and sped off.

The victim told deputies that there was little loss, as she had removed her wallet from the purse before the purse was stolen.

Board To Receive Goals Of District

The regular meeting of the Lemon Grove School District Board of Trustees scheduled for Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. will be held in the auditorium at Lemon Grove Junior High School instead of at the board room, it was announced this week by Leonard Klee, president of the board.

The meeting will be held at the junior high because of an anticipated increase in the number of persons who will attend, brought on by the fact that goals for the district will be presented.

The goals have been formulated by a citizen advisory council, under the chairmanship of Bill Talbot. The council, designated last year by the board, appointed citizen committees at each school to formulate goals for the schools, which were then formulated into district-wide goals.

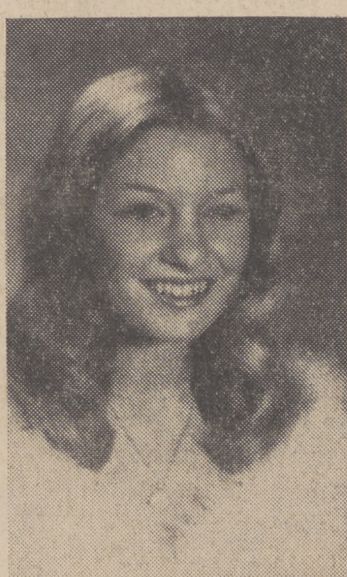

The council, under the chairmanship of Talbot, also includes John Linn, Jerry Legerton, Gabe DeNunzio, Esther Robinson, James Rowell, Herndon Douglas, Emilie Johnson, Ann Hansell, Ramon Ross, Carol Chubb, and Bob Mastny. Assistant superintendent James Justeson is liaison for the district.

Over 100 parents, teachers, and members of the community.

Hardison's Telespanish

Both "usted" and "tu" mean "you" in English. It is a common practice to use "usted" when talking to someone with whom you are not familiar as in business and social situations in which the persons you speak to are not your close friends or a part of your family.

"Usted" appears with a different verb form than "tu." The verb form used with "tu" has a different ending than the verb form used with "usted." This may be seen in the examples "tu hablas" and "usted habla." Both of these mean "you speak" but the verb form ends in "s" when "tu" is the subject.

"Vives" is a verb form used with "tu." "Vive" is the form used with "usted." Both mean "you live." However, we may say "Tu vives en casa." (You live at home.) when talking to a close friend. We may also use the phrase "Usted vive en casa." (You live at home.) When talking within a business situation or with persons with whom you are not familiar.

"Tomas" would be used with "tu." "Toma" would be used with "usted." Both expressions mean "you take." Thus we may say to a close friend "Tu tomas tu tiempo." (You take your time.) When talking to persons with whom you are not familiar you would say "Usted toma su tiempo." (You take your time.)

"Tu" is always used for "you" when talking with children. Thus we may say to a child "Tu estudias mucho." (You study a lot.) When talking to an unknown adult we would say "Usted estudia mucho." (You study a lot.)

Compare the difference in phrases used with adults and children as well as those used with close friends and associates listed below. You may enjoy practicing them with the aid of the recorded voice (276-2762).

Say "Usted es mi amigo." (oo-STEHD ehs mee ah-MEE-goh) for "You are my friend." Say "Tu eres mi amigo." (too EH-rehs mee ah-MEE-goh) for "You are my friend." Say "Usted vive aqui." (oo-STEHD VEE-veh ah-KEE) for "You live here."

Say "Tu vives aqui." (too VEE-vehs ah-KEE) for "You live here." Say "Como estas tu?" (KOH-moh eh-STAHs too) for "How are you?"

Say "Como esta usted?" (KOH-moh eh-stah oo-STEHD) for "How are you?"

DIVISION DIRECTOR — Navy civil service employee and Lemon Grove resident, Mrs. Nickie Bruso of 8064 Drexel ct., is serving as Director, Material and Operations Div., Material Dept., with the San Diego Navy Public Works Center aboard the Naval Station.

Lemon Grove Woman Heads PWC Division

Greater effort is in evidence today involving women in higher management positions in government.

In San Diego one example concerns Navy civil service employee Mrs. Nickie Bruso of 8064 Drexel ct., Lemon Grove. She serves the Material Dept., with the San Diego Navy Public Works Center aboard the Naval Station.

Mrs. Bruso is presently serving as Director, Material and Operations Div. She was picked for the job when the center's Carter Curtis departed for the Far East on temporary assignment recently. And recently, when the head of the Material Dept. was required to be away from the center on business, Mrs. Bruso was named to fill the department head job during his absence.

"These opportunities are giving me valuable experience in new areas. My present job deals more with the function of an administrator compared to previous experience as that of a production supervisor. It involves exposure to different kinds of problems at higher levels," she explained.

"In the past many of the problems confronted during the daily routine were those coming down from higher levels. This period has given me an appreciation of problems from below and above," Mrs. Bruso said.

Head of the Material Dept., Ralph Habecker, explained his policy decisions regarding selections for supervisory positions. "When decisions are made within the department involving manager and supervisory positions the individual's abilities and capabilities are factors considered."

How does he rate Mrs. Bruso? "She's a highly valued member of the PWC San Diego team. She has demonstrated an exceptionally good management attitude and consistently produces high quality performance in her technical field of Inventory Management and Control. Mrs. Bruso exercises a very keen sense of perception concerning the overall impact of the Material Dept., as it relates to the Center's mission. She's strongly motivated toward our basic objectives of furnishing the best possible service to the production shops," Habecker said.

Mrs. Bruso started her civil service career in 1944. Two years later she became the first woman employee serving the Public Works Dept., Coronado Amphibious Base, in 1946. She's served PWC San Diego, all with Material, since 1964.

The Easter weekend event will be held at the Fairgrounds in Del Mar tomorrow through Sunday. The auxiliary is selling tickets and sponsorships for classes and will be in charge of the awards booth. Proceeds will go toward therapeutic equipment for the intensive care unit at Grossmont Hospital.

BoA Savings Kits Free to Families

Bank of America, with over 1,000 offices in the state, has prepared a guide for the average family on how to plan the business of living so that routine expenses, entertainment costs, and long-term goals match income.

This "how-to" kit, called the Family Financial Planning Kit, consists of an 8-page, instructional booklet, "Your Money & the Business of Living," and five worksheets for computing monthly living expenses, fixed monthly payments, important future expenses, a monthly money planner and a yearly money planner.

The kit is available free at Bank of America offices throughout California.

"Your income needs, attitudes, personality, taste, ambitions and spending habits all determine how you live and spend your money," says the booklet. It then provides guidelines on developing a spending plan.

For instance, the booklet suggests as a rule-of-thumb that a family establish an emergency savings fund of from three to six months' income. However, starting families probably will be able to save less, established families more.

"The important thing, young or old, is not to overestimate your ability to handle credit and to establish a savings program that will help provide a cushion for emergencies," says the booklet.

Illustrations are given for completing the worksheets.

COMBO Starts Spring Campaign

The Combined Arts and Education Council of San Diego County began its 1973-74 fundraising year last week with the opening of its Community Spring Campaign.

The month-long campaign will raise funds through direct cash contributions from corporations, business, government and foundations for the support of San Diego's major cultural and performing arts organizations.

Chairman for the 1973 COMBO Community Spring Campaign is Robert L. Miller, vice president of Bank of America, San Diego Branch. Miller appointed a committee of 25 volunteers from the San Diego business community who will assist him in personally contacting corporate and business executives of 146 major firms for contributions to support COMBO's member organizations.

In addition to those firms, 240 other companies will be personally contacted for contributions by nine COMBO loan executives, and another 750 firms will be contacted by direct mail. All the contributions are tax deductible, and they can be made in cash or pledges payable in one or more payments during the year.

Last year's COMBO Community Spring Campaign raised $128,000. This year's goal for the month-long drive is $150,000. COMBO needs to meet this goal during the spring campaign in order to put the organization closer to its total 1973-74 fundraising goal of $750,000.

Remaining funds will be sought through city and county government grants and COMBO's two auctions this fall, the COMBO TV auction and the COMBO dinner auction.

Matador Bats Boom As Team Wins Two Games

Warning to Grossmont League baseball teams: Mt. Miguel has come around.

Learning that the hard way last week were Granite Hills and Grossmont as Mt. Miguel bats boomed to lead the team to its third and fourth victories.

Going almost unnoticed in the pair of wins was the team's great pitching, as Steve Long twirled a one-hitter Tuesday to beat Granite Hills, 11-0, then combined with Jess Jenner to toss a two-hitter Friday over Grossmont, 19-1.

On Tuesday, the Matador batters greeted Eagle pitcher Chuck Renneau with five runs in the first inning, as Renneau had poor control, and when he was able to get the ball over the plate, the Matadors were able to give it a good ride. He left the game after 1/3 of an inning in favor of Vince Ancona, who had slightly better luck.

The Matadors exploded again in the third inning for four more runs and added single tallies in the fourth and sixth frames to make it 11-0.

Long, meanwhile, was up to his old tricks. Just four days earlier, he had thrown a no-hitter at Santana. For the first four and 2/3 innings, he appeared enroute to his second straight no-hitter, but Ken Barton spoiled it with a bloop single to right field.

He walked only two batters enroute to 13 strikeouts and the victory.

On Friday, Long again went to the mound to start his fourth straight game.

He worked four innings, giving up just two hits, before making way for Jess Jenner, who worked three innings of perfect ball. Long gave up the only Grossmont run, a single tally in the fourth frame.

Mt. Miguel bats again lit up early in the game, as the Matadors collected seven runs in the first inning, seven more in the second, and five runs in the third inning, making the game a 19-1 affair.

For Mt. Miguel, Tom Gallagher, Phil Williamson, Steve Long, and Bill Cohen all hit home runs.

With Mt. Miguel in peak form, other league teams will have this week to worry before league action resumes Tuesday. The Matadors will host Helix at 3 p.m.

The Matadors have now won four straight games in a steady climb from the bottom of the standings to fourth place, two games behind league leading Monte Vista.

out of the bars and made a new and exciting sport by a group in Petaluma. The tournament, started by this group, grew until it finally reached the status of the First Official World's Championship, twelve years ago.

During the past few years the publicity for this World's Championship Wristwrestling Tournament reached an all-time high, with a good deal of the credit going to a wise-cracking Beagle named Snoppy.

The Charles Schulz cartoon character carried the banner for wristwrestling all over the world. Since then the World's Championship Wristwrestling Tournament has been seen on ABC's Wide World of Sports five separate times and will again be shown this year.

The S.D. Invitational carries top priority for the World's Wristwrestling Championship Tournament and champions of other states will be there to participate.

The San Diego tournament will give S. Cal. residents, their first real chance to enter the competition on a state level and fans can see how exciting wristwrestling is under the rules and regulations that have guided this sport into national prominence.

The tourney is sponsored by the San Diego County Deputy Sheriffs Assn. and its members have spent many months in preparation.

There will be five divisions: Weatherweight 150 pounds and under — Lightweight 151 pounds to 175 — Middleweight 176 to 200, and the unlimited division. Anyone can enter the latter division regardless of size, and the winner of this division will be crowned overall champion. There is also a women's division which encompasses all weight divisions.

Weigh-in time is 9 a.m. at the Sports Arena and all S. Cal. athletes can enter free of charge.

Golf Freshman Named Top Rookie By Comedians

Lanny Wadkins, the 23 year old Virginian who dazzled the golf world in his rookie year by winning $116,617, breaking Bob Murphy's freshman year record of $105,000 has been selected as the Comedians' Golf Classic "Pro of the Year," announced 1973 Chairman Buddy Hackett.

The nation's top comics, along with other celebrities from the sports and entertainment worlds, and prominent executives gather annually to pay tribute (in their inimitable fashion) to the professional golfer they admire and wish to embrace. Other endorsement awards are also presented to "The Golf Widow of the Year" and the "Mulligan Award," presented yearly to one of their peers whom they most admire and respect. Although sometimes hard to recognize as bestowals of honor because of the biting wit often employed, the recipients look forward to being so chosen by the funny men.

Another distinction which is presented at the same time, is perhaps the only award handled with some degree of reverence and is their Humanitarian Award which last year was presented to Fred MacMurray for his role in aiding handicapped children, and was given to him by the previous year's winner, Monty Hall. Others also feted last year included Lucille Ball, Groucho Marx and pro Tommy Jacobs who left the tour to become Director of Golf at La Costa C. C. where the CGC is annually held. The fun-filled invitational event will be held there May 17-19th and benefits multi-handicapped/blind children.

To combat the high cost of food, the Department of Agriculture is urging citizens to eat more dried beans due to a 13-per cent increase in production last year.

John Cosh Heads Craven's Campaign

OCEANSIDE — Banking executive and prominent North County civic leader John Cosh has been named campaign treasurer for the Bill Craven for Assembly Committee.

Craven, currently Fifth District Supervisor, was the first Republican to declare his candidacy for the seat in the 80th Assembly District, left open by the resignation of newly-elected State Senator John Stull. The successor will be chosen May 29 in a special election.

Cosh, who worked actively on behalf of Craven three years ago when the former Marine Corps major decisively defeated a field of seven to win the supervisor's post, said he "is delighted to work again in Craven's behalf."

Vets Loan Fund Gets $3000 Boost

Grossmont College's Veterans' Revolving Loan Fund was recently increased by $3,000 after a contribution from the Disabled American Veterans Industries, Inc.

According to Judge Gilbert Harelson, a member of the Board of Directors for the Disabled American Veterans Industries, Inc. and chairman of their Education Fund Committee, an additional $1,000 has been earmarked for the college's Veterans' Revolving Loan Fund.

Administered by Grossmont College's Financial Aid Office, the revolving loan fund provides loans from $50 to $250 to eligible needy veterans, dependents of deceased veterans and wives and dependents of POW's or MIA's.

More than 220 veterans attend Grossmont College. Many veterans have had to withdraw from college because their G.I. benefits are often delayed from two to four months. Some veterans are unable to pay basic fees and purchase books in addition to being unable to meet living expenses during this critical waiting period. The Veterans' Revolving Loan Fund will provide the necessary financial assistance for veterans to remain in college until they begin receiving government benefits.

After an appeal by the college last spring to local veterans' organizations, six local groups contributed a total of $165 to establish the Grossmont College Veterans' Revolving Loan Fund.

Organizations or individuals who may wish to add to the Veterans' Revolving Loan Fund through bequests or direct contributions, may contact the Student Placement and Financial Aid Office at the college.

Mass Media Class Set For Summer

A Communication Arts course titled "The Individual and Mass Communications" will be offered during the summer session for the first time this year at Grossmont College.

The three-unit course is acceptable as a general education option, according to instructor Ray Reynolds, who has taught the course since its inception in 1961. The class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday from June 26 through August 21.

Three main aspects of the mass media — content, form and control — will be examined at length. The content unit includes discussion of the news, opinion and entertainment functions of the printed and electronic media. In the form unit, the relative merits and deficiencies of the individual media will be explored. The control unit surveys constitutional, statutory and extra-legal types of controls over the media.

Application deadline for the course and other summer session courses at Grossmont College is June 14 with registration scheduled June 21.

ON CARTER STAGE — Lee Murphy, left, portrays a shy young girl enjoying escape into a fantasy world of glass figurines as her mother, played by Carole Marget, strives to provide motivation and meaning in the lives of her daughter in the Tennessee Williams drama "The Glass Menagerie," now playing on stage for a limited run through May 13 at the Carter Center Stage, adjacent to the Old Globe Theatre in Balboa Park.

'Glass Menagerie' On Carter Center Stage

Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" is the final Old Globe Theatre production of the current season. Described by the playwright as a "memory play," the drama opened Wednesday night at the Carter Center Stage, adjacent to the Old Globe Theatre in Balboa Park.

Performances of "The Glass Menagerie" are scheduled nightly except Monday through May 13. A Sunday matinee will be presented April 29.

With action taking place during the 1940's and in the past, the story is narrated by a young man sharing a shabby St. Louis apartment with his mother and sister. Working in a factory to support the family, he waits for the opportunity to leave his confining life and become a poet.

The play deals with the illusions which motivate the lives of the three principal characters. The mother revels in reflections of her past life and feeds on the hope of finding a proper husband for her crippled daughter. Attempting to hold her small family together, she strives to provide meaning for the empty lives of her children. The daughter, unable to cope with life outside the home, has escaped into her private world of glass figurines.

College Sets Study Tour In Europe

The opportunity to see the "real Europe" that most Americans experience only through viewing post cards, is still available through participating in Grossmont College's fifth annual European study tour this summer.

The tour offers a journey through middle Europe that will include many of the famous sights in addition to those that tourists never see — places off the beaten track.

While the tour is designed especially for Grossmont College, enrollment in the college is not necessary to go on the tour. Members of the community are invited to participate and may earn six units of college credit if they wish to enroll in the college's summer session.

The itinerary includes such cities as Brussels, Waterloo, Lucerne, Salzburg, Vienna, Genoa, Pisa, Nice, Orleans and Paris, as well as many others. The price of $995 for the 36-day tour includes transportation from Los Angeles to Brussels and from Paris to Los Angeles.

Grossmont College Business instructor, Robert Peck, will serve as tour guide. Peck, a former member of the United States Foreign Service, has traveled extensively in Europe and is familiar with the Europe that few tourists have the opportunity to see.

Additional information concerning the tour may be obtained by contacting tour coordinator John Feare at 465-1700, Ext. 277 or Robert Peck, Ext. 205.

Clarkson Returns To Banking After Month's Retirement

Thomas A. Clarkson, who retired last month as president of Land Title Insurance Co., and chairman of the board, is returning to the field of commerce.

He has accepted a post as vice president, business development officer, Westlands Bank, San Diego.

Clarkson is well known in business and civic circles throughout the county. It was through him, at Land Title, that photos of early San Diego were made available without cost to publications, chambers of commerce, historic organizations and others.

The emergence from retirement of Clarkson was announced by J. J. Thomason, executive vice president and director of Westlands San Diego.

Clarkson remains on the executive committee and board member of California Land Title Assn. He remains active as a member of S.D. Convention and Visitors Bureau, Navy League of U. S., Chula Vista Community Hospital and Better Business Bureau of S.D.

He is general chairman for the upcoming American Land Title Assn's 1973 Annual Convention and past president of the S.D. Chamber of Commerce.

He is a perennial fund drive campaign chairman — such as American Red Cross, Muscular Dystrophy, Heart Association, Christian division of the United Jewish Federation. He is past director of United Community Services of San Diego.

Westlands is a rapidly expanding independent bank serving clientele from San Francisco to San Diego, but is staffed by local personnel. Full banking services include a complete loan department, Thomason said. It also has its own data processing division which supplies service on a 24 hour basis, with bonded couriers throughout California.

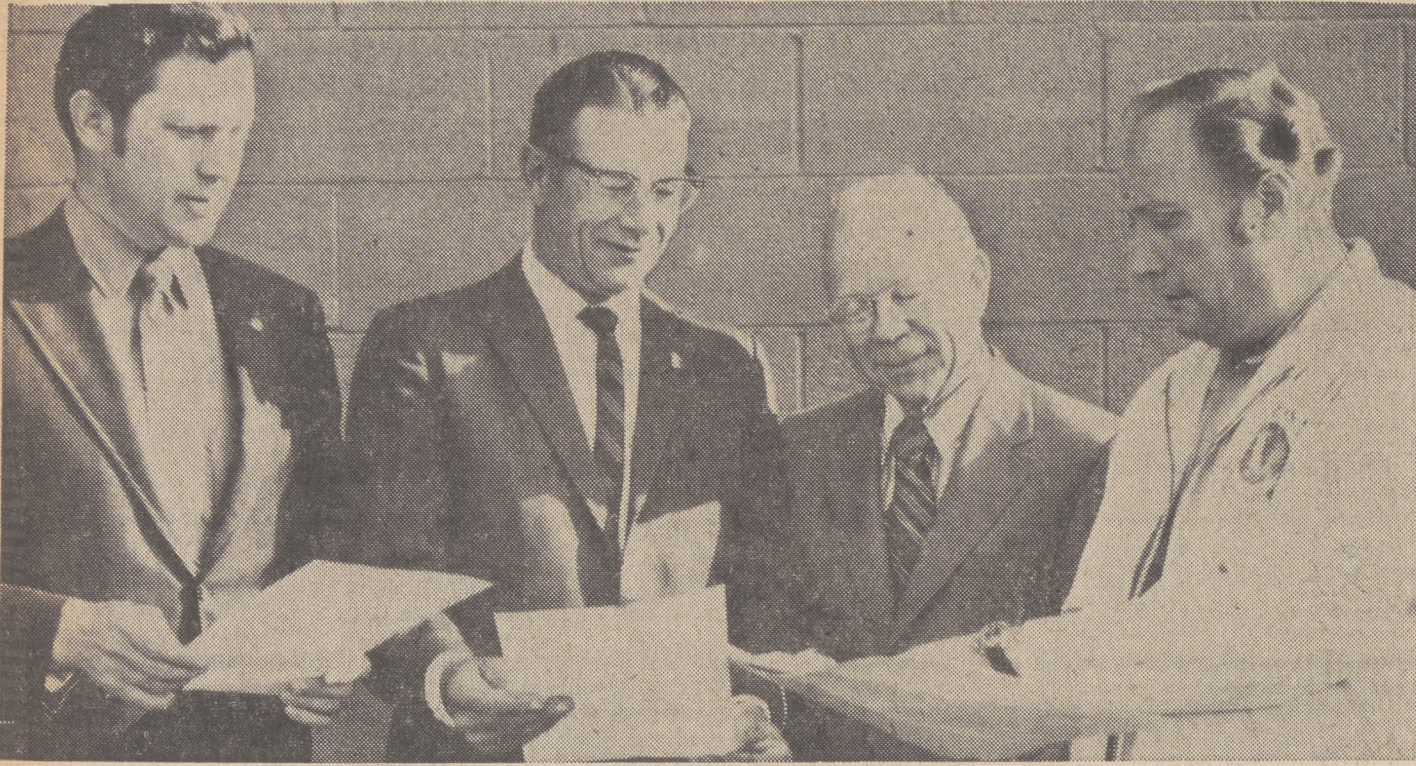

The San Diego office will open at Columbia and Ash in early summer.

file was transferred to the roomier summit of Mt. Helix at the invitation of Colonel Ed Fletcher, pioneer San Diego water and land developer.

Assurance of the continuance of the service came in 1924 when Mrs. Yawkey White and her brother Cyrus Carpenter Yawkey, wished to acquire the property as a permanent memorial. Colonel and Mary Fletcher responded by donating the property for the service.

In 1924, ground was broken for the construction of a permanent amphitheatre for the holding of the Easter observances. On April 12, 1925, the first service was conducted in the new amphitheatre on the six acre site, the only facility of its kind ever constructed for a single event.
